EDITOR'S NOTE: As you may know, this edition of insideNewberry was supposed to hit the streets and cyberspace in early April. Since many of our distribution places were closed due to government mandates related to the Coronavirus, we did not go to print at our usual time. Due to the delay, some of the content became outdated or obsolete. I have retained as much of the original content as I could, and edited or changed copy that needed adjustment. I would like to thank our sponsors for their patience, and apologize to those who submitted content that has been removed. The deadline for submissions to the next edition of insideNewberry is June 8th, and anyone is welcome to submit an article for publication. All submissions are subject to editing.

NCP Reorganizes, Looks to Bright Future

FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS INVITED TO NEXT MEETING

The Newberry Community Partnership (NCP) took stock of its resources at a recent February meeting and asked if it should disband or reboot. The consensus among its determined dozen volunteers was to reorganize and stay on mission for the betterment of Newberry, and they ask others to consider joining.

"We really have done so much, and do so much, for the community," said Alannah Gabriel, who was on the ground floor of the NCP's creation in 2006, served as its first president until 2008, and served as the Elm Street manager for Newberry from 2008 to 2016. Gabriel was made a Board Member Emeritus on March 11 for her years of faithful service.

The NCP has sponsored and organized litter pickups – Fall and Spring – for years, and has been active in Newberry beautification projects, including tree plantings, the new banners on the light poles, and the signs welcoming people to historic Newberry. Recently, the NCP spearheaded the movement to get PennDOT to replace the 51 street trees that were razed during the 4th Street renovation project. And of course, the NCP puts out this community publication. From political protests to business expos to welcoming Santa to Newberry, the NCP has been widely active in promoting the holistic health of its community.

As happens so often with volunteer community organizations, though, the hardest workers were kept in harness while attrition eroded the volunteer base. Deciding it was time for a reboot, the remaining group put forward a new Board of Directors, revised its bylaws, re-instituted its annual meeting, and – most importantly – reorganized to recognize an entry level membership group, the Friends of Newberry. Friends of Newberry are the people who have an interest in bettering the community and would like to stay in the communication loop about the NCP’s needs and actions.

Those who are interested in the NCP mission “to promote community pride and facilitate communication between residents, schools, civic organizations, and businesses” are encouraged to attend the next NCP meeting. There, the progress of the year will be reported, officers will be elected, and the opportunities to improve Newberry as a Friend of Newberry will be explained.

All are invited to the Annual Meeting, but the new members of the Board, below, can also be approached about the organization and its work. Some of them are likely friends and neighbors.

Phil and Carmella Preziosi have been lifelong residents of Newberry, and Phil Preziosi was Mayor of Williamsport from 1992-95. Also a member of the Lions Club, the former Mayor has never ceased being civic-minded, and neither has his wife and best friend, Carmella, who has served as the Treasurer for the NCP for several terms of office. Both Preziosis have stepped back onto the board to anchor it for a few more years.

Bob Woodley works by day on the accounts at Backyard Broadcasting and volunteers his talents as editor of insideNewberry, which connects Newberry’s present and past, connects its people and businesses, and represents Newberry to the larger Williamsport community. Bob is also on the Board of Directors at the Newberry Independent Club (Polish Club). He and his wife Tracey have lived in Newberry since 2010.

Michele Frey is the Executive Director of the Lycoming Law Association and the Business Manager of the Lycoming Reporter – and a staunch supporter of her husband, Judge Christian Frey – but she has become much more involved recently with the NCP through the travesty of the street trees being removed from 4th Street. For local communities’ interests to be preserved, they have to have a voice, and Frey believes in the NCP as that voice for Newberry.

Mary Rucinski, Assistant Director of Community Development for the City of Williamsport and an officer for Historic Preservation, has also served several terms as Secretary of the NCP. She has functioned as a de facto liaison between the NCP and the City, providing timely information about larger activities, grants, and projects that the NCP may want to join.

Robbie Cross owns and runs Equinox, a fabricator of outdoor equipment in The Pajama Factory, and is fittingly an avid hiker himself. A long-term resident of Newberry, one of the founders of the West Branch School, and the current president of the Responsible Drilling Alliance, Cross is deeply committed to sustainable and thriving communities.

Joshua Hill is a relative newcomer to the Newberry area, having moved here in 2017 to take an instructor position at Pennsylvania College of Technology. Hill is no stranger to community involvement, having worked with the Hazelton and Greenfield communities in Pittsburgh as well as contributing to the 10-year vision and planning meetings for Lakeland, Florida. Hill hopes to put his communication skills to work in Newberry, especially to build bridges between neighbors and the many different groups of people represented in the Newberry community.

By the time of the Annual Meeting, we hope the Coronavirus wave will have passed, but watch the NCP facebook page (<https://www.facebook.com/ncpcommunity>) for any schedule changes. We hope to see you at the Annual Meeting, and even more that you will consider working with us for the betterment of our community as a Friend of Newberry.

PA 2-1-1 Assistance for COVID-19

COVID-19 is the latest crisis and has garnered plenty of media attention with good reason. Public health emergencies are just one way that the 2-1-1 information and referral service is helping. 2-1-1 is part of a nationwide network, and in Pennsylvania, PA 2-1-1 is powered, and in a large part funded by United Way of Pennsylvania and the United Way network, including the Lycoming County United Way.

PA 2-1-1 is a free, confidential, 24-hour information and referral service that connects Pennsylvanians to health and human service needs. While 9-1-1 is reserved for emergency services, 2-1-1 is the call to make for health, human services and disaster relief. 2-1-1 is designed to serve three major objectives:

1. Connect people in need to health and human service assistance available through government programs and private nonprofit organizations in their communities;
2. Provide assistance to communities in time of disaster, allowing 9-1-1 to work primarily with first responders; and
3. Connect volunteers and donors with organizations who can leverage these resources to meet the needs of the community.

According to Kristen Rotz, President of United Way of Pennsylvania, one of the ways PA 2-1-1 can assist is with community members that are Asset-Limited, Income Constrained and Employed, or ALICE.

“The United Way of Pennsylvania ALICE report shows us that 37 percent of Pennsylvania’s households are employed but still struggling to afford all the essentials. As we take measures necessary to protect the public health, the consequences of lost income will hit many of the very same households that already struggle at a full paycheck. These are workers in the service industry, the retail industry, and other sectors such as child care centers which will be closed. These are also small business owners and people who string together a series of gigs to earn their living. Meanwhile, other ALICE households are headed by essential workers such as direct care workers, nurses assistants and nonprofit employees who will have to continue to work their full schedule, and potentially overtime – while child care centers close making it more difficult to earn a living and assure the health and safety of their families. The impacts to ALICE households are likely to last for months after we return to our normal routines.

“PA 2-1-1 is there for everyone, including ALICE, regardless of need or income, to try to connect people in need to support in their community. 2-1-1 also helps document needs and provide data so that United Way and all of our partners know how best to provide support during an unprecedented challenge for working families across our state,” said Rotz.

If you are in need of any particular human services, please dial 2-1-1 or text your zip code to 898211.

PA 2-1-1 Northeast is brought to you by Family Service Association of Northeastern Pennsylvania (FSA).

Took A Walk On The Wild Side

Just in time to beat the self-isolation and social distancing recommendations and mandates, the Newberry Independent Club (Polish Club) held their second annual “Mens” fashion show to raise money for the cancer fund. The event was held on March 15th, and although the crowd was small compared to last year, the event raised $357. That’s about half of what was raised during the inaugural event, despite the light attendance. Event organizer, Connie Hakes, was grateful that this year’s attendees were more generous. There were five men who competed in the fashion show, and of course, they were dressed as women.

Those in attendance were treated to a parade of beauty and pageantry. Host Walt Sarama introduced all of the contestants to the crowd, asked them each a question about themselves, and had a few quips ready to go that got the crowd laughing. In the end, Charles Johnson was the winner of the tiara and sash, as well as a trophy to commemorate his/her achievement. This was Charles’ second try at the title, won last year by Mike Confer, who didn’t defend his/her title. “I wish there was more competition,” said Charles. “Added bling and a better wig than last year put me over the top.”

A Word from the WECCC

Wonderful things are happening at the West End Christian Community Center. Oh, nothing earth shaking. It's just that our programs, staffed almost entirely by volunteers, are running as they should be. People are coming through our doors to use our programs and services. Dedicated staff and board members are frequently looking for better ways to continue to serve the community. And thankfully, donations and fundraisers make it possible for us to continue to pay our bills so all of our programs can continue operating. It's at times like this I like to say God is good.

Currently the news is dominated with the Coronavirus and the economy. We are doing our best to keep up with sanitizing high touch areas and trying to keep those who frequent our programs informed. There is not much we can do about the economy at our level. But right now is a time to reflect that in all things we rely on God and are trusting in Him for the safety and welfare of all who have anything to do with the West End Christian Community Center. And, we welcome Spring, fresh air coming in through the windows, more sunshine, greening grass, and beautiful little flowers poking through the ground. Take time to enjoy the beauty, and turn off the news.

We are in the process of planning an Outdoor Charity Gala in June of this year to be held in Newberry Park. We are hoping it will be a worthy fundraising dinner where businesses and the community will be able to see the benefits of our programs and services. ~ Submitted by Todd Penman, Executive Director

Little League Memories

The 1969 Newberry LLB All-Star Team

Reprinted from the April 2007 issue of insideNewberry

It is spring time, and for many of the youth in our area, thoughts turn to the game of summer, baseball. After all, Williamsport is the home of the Little League World Series! Many times this area has been blessed with champions. One of the outstanding memories for the youth of summer was in the year 1969. The All Star Little League team for Newberry was picked from the individual teams of Alcan Cable, Brodart, Kelloggs, Knights, and Ray-O-Vac. The manager of the All Stars was Fred Heaps, an icon of Newberry Little League. He was assisted by coach Jim Hamilton.

The 1969 Newberry All Stars were the first local team to win a PA Little League Championship. The team roster consisted of pitchers Steve Karney and Don Cohick, catcher Mike Prowant, first baseman Steve Kreamer, second baseman Joe Saboski, third baseman Harry (Rusty) Sechler, left fielder Doug Cline, center fielder Randy Vaughn, right fielder Allen Reed and reserve players Brian Nasdeo, Scott Peterson, Steve Salvatori, Tom Green, and young Jim Hamilton. It was an exciting time for our local boys, who practiced twice a day in preparation for the championship games.

In the state semi-finals, Newberry triumphed over their competitors. At the end of the first inning, St. Therese lead by one run after three singles. For Newberry, in the second inning, Allen Reed walked, Mike Prowant singled, and Rusty Sechler singled to load the bases. Reed and Prowant both scored on a wild pitch when the catcher's throw flew over the opposing team pitcher's head. Randy Vaughn's two run double in the third inning completed the winning score of 4-1. Newberry's pitcher, Don Cohick, used his sweeping curveball to retire 15 of the batters he faced in the finals game. Joe Saboski's triple gave Newberry a 3-2 lead that won them the PA State Championship Title.

At the Eastern Regional Tournament in Bellevue, New Jersey, Newberry defeated Southington, Connecticut and Smithtown, New York to capture the Eastern Title and advance to the Little League World Series.

When the boys returned to Newberry, much to their surprise, they were greeted by hundreds of fans at the home field. They were so focused on practicing for the games they had no idea they had so many dedicated fans, who erected lights for their evening return. The entire town was glued to their radios to follow their progress to victory!

Their championship journey led them to International Grove in South Williamsport, for a week of socializing and playing in the Little League World Series. They traded autographs and met other Little League teammates from around the world. On August 18, 1969, Newberry Little League placed 5th in the world. What an accomplishment for our hometown boys!

Life Amid COVID-19

It's very strange, the world we live in today. It wasn't long ago that we were a race of social people, able to sit at a table together, taste a sample of a friend's new drink, and hug an old friend you hadn't seen in awhile. Now, we're told to keep six feet away from each other, wear a mask over our faces, and not shake hands with a business acquaintance.

I keep hearing the phrase, "the new normal." I don't like it. It's not normal. It never has been, and it will never be "normal." Sure, there might be things that are different when all of this passes, but the way we're living now is not normal. Being isolated from each other prevents the virus from spreading, but it also inhibits the spreading of ideas from one person to another, or to a group of people. Isolation prohibits commerce, to be sure, as well as trust between us. Sure, there are social media sites that enable you to express thoughts and get feedback, but it doesn't come close to having a person-to-person conversation, or speaking in front of a group of your peers. Sure, you can shop on-line and have a product delivered to your door, but that won't help the proprietor of a local business, or develop bonds among you and other people in your neighborhood. People now view other people as a possible bringer of death, unable to tell if they are being exposed to a virus by somebody not wearing a facemask, or by touching something already touched by a carrier.

In general, I think we've always been cautious about catching the flu or some other ailment, but now our collective radar is on full-sensor, suspicious of strangers as well as people we normally trust. New Normal? No. Not Normal.

As sure as a dog needs a pat on the head, we need physical contact with other humans. A handshake, a hug, a consoling hand on the shoulder of someone who's down means a lot to us in terms of comfort and acceptance. I'm grateful I can still hug my wife everyday, but it also would be nice to pat a buddy on the back for a job well done or high-five a personal victory.

Yes, it's a strange world we live in today. It's not a fun one, either. I sure would like to be able to see more people smiling. They might be smiling, but I can't tell. A little thing like a smile can change the way people feel about themselves or about the world. It doesn't matter if it's a smile you know or a total stranger smile. A smile can say a lot, and we are being deprived of everything our smiles say to each other. The eyes may be the window to the soul, but a smile is a window to the heart.

I don't believe this is the new normal. Somehow, I believe we'll return to the life we knew before this virus became a threat. I have too much faith in humanity to settle for anything less. Humans are social, and have been for thousands of years. However many months this virus may effect us will be a blip on the radar of human existence. I predict the time will come, sooner rather than later, that we'll get back to our routines, our social lives, our face-to-face meetings with clients, attend sporting events, and gather together to celebrate life's events like birthdays, anniversaries and holidays. I'm hoping we can all gather together to celebrate our nation's birthday this July 4th!

I know there is a lot of uncertainty about the future. People are losing faith in our elected officials' decisions, and second-guessing our path. As a modern society, we've never been through this before, so mistakes will be made. Hindsight is 20/20. If we use common sense on an individual basis, and do what we believe will be in the best interest of society and our families, this too shall pass. ~ Bob Woodley

NCP Benefits from Raise the Region Campaign

The First Community Foundation Partnership's annual "Raise the Region" campaign was again a huge success for non-profit organizations, including local ones. The Newberry Community Partnership, publisher of insideNewberry and a leading organization for improving and maintaining a healthy Newberry community, received 10 donations equaling $325. Having received the minimum number of donors needed to participate again next year, the NCP would like to say thank you to those of you who donated to our cause.

WOMEN VOTERS®

organization fully committed to diversity, equity, and inclusion in principle and in practice. Diversity, equity, and inclusion are central to the organization's current and future success in engaging all individuals, households, communities, and policy makers in creating a more perfect democracy.

The meetings are held on the second Thursday of the month at 5:15pm. The group meets in Dining room A, lower level at Divine Providence Hospital.

The LWV of Lycoming County is in the planning process with local school districts to assist with voter registration and education. The League is also a co-sponsor of the upcoming August 9th Centennial celebration of the ratification of the 19th Amendment, which gave women the right to vote.

Members of the group will also be at the Grower's Market every first Saturday of the month during the regular season and at First Friday events from May through October.

Please join us to make a difference in the community of Newberry. The League is proud to be nonpartisan, neither supporting or opposing candidates or political parties at any level of government, but always working on vital issues of concern to members and the public. ~ Submitted by Caroline Brady, President, LWV
